FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

JEFF'S HOMEMADE GAME SHOW BRINGS TV GAME SHOW TO CHICAGO AREA FAMILIES' HOMES

CHICAGO – August 25, 2016 Jeff's Homemade Game Show is currently seeking Chicago area families big and small to invite host Jeff Rogers to their home for a chance to win prizes they will love and maybe some they won't be too excited about receiving.

Jeff's Homemade Game Show turns a visit to a family's home into a fun instant TV game show as the host conducts various fun challenges using the family's own on-site household objects, locations and activities. Money, prizes and selected items from Jeff's actual house will be awarded to the family during the show. Family members will be asked to do everything from pulling toilet paper through the house without it breaking to knowing the last channel selected on their TV set or the number of carrots in their refrigerator.

The executive production team of Chicago area natives Jeff Rogers, Bob Maraist and Bob Kopach always wanted to produce a TV game show here. "With Chicago having such strong roots in the history of television, we always thought the Windy City deserves a locally produced game show," said Rogers.

Rogers, a Second City alum and award-winning Chicago actor, currently can be seen on Chicago PD, Chicago Fire and Empire. Chicago's Emmy Award winning Worldview Productions is producing the show.

Families interested in participating in future productions can go to the Jeff's Homemade Game Show web site www.homemadegameshow.com to sign up for consideration.
